Draft Water Action Plan Available for Review

The draft Water Action Plan for the Mid-Coast Water Planning Partnership has been created and is available for review and can be accessed by visiting the Partnership website at www.midcoastwaterpartners.com, and clicking on the Action Plan menu link, Draft Water Action Plan sub-link.

Two additional rounds of edits to the Water Action Plan will be incorporated during August of 2021, including edits to the overall plan as well as the implementation table.

In September, the Integrated Water Management Plan Development Team will be sharing a beta mapping and reporting tool for review and testing by the Partnership Coordinating Committee. It will then be available online, providing access to data and information as well as the ability to generate reports and information relative to water in the Mid-Coast.

COMING IN AUGUST . . .

Charter signatories will be convening in August to provide two rounds of edits to the Water Action Plan. Stay tuned for additional progress as the MCWPP develops its Water Action Plan! We are planning a full partnership webinar to share the draft Water Action Plan on September 28 at 10am.
